

XM Satellite Radio, for which I pay, should be aloud to provide any service they would like to provide. The NAB should not, cannot and will not dictate to me or any other subscriber what they can and cannot listen to. XM provides theses services because local sources are not able to provide these services at near on demand or the accuracy that XM is able to provide. Trying to force XM to not be able to provide these local services is the same thing as telling cable/satellite providers to not air The Weather Channel because it interferes with local news channels.

Sincerely,
Mike Nichols
